FROM HOD's DESK

Developing a specific spark in the student is our goal. E&Tc Bulletin intends to nourish and polish not only future writers, thinkers, scientists but ideal citizens of the India.

The entire landscape of higher and technical education is witnessing a paradigm shift. Our engineering graduates must be equipped with the right set of knowledge, skills, competencies and values to face the challenges and avail opportunities offered by the emerging global scenario. This need exposure of our students to globally competitive curricula and imagination of young minds to explore new avenues. To achieve this as per our tradition in this semester also we had number of curricular and extracurricular activities at institute, regional and national levels. Many of our students participated in inter collegiate activities. We congratulate all the participants in general and prize winners in particular.

We wish best of luck to all the students in the ensuing examination. May the almighty bless all our final year students abundantly with divine wisdom and bright future.

Let me express my sincere thanks to all those who have been instrumental in bringing out this issue of bulletin.

EDITORIAL

It gives me enormous pleasure to pen these lines on behalf of Editorial board for another issue of E&Tc Bulletin, the first one of this sort in the year 2014. Let me thank all those who have been instrumental in bringing out this issue well in time in spite of our hectic academic schedule.

As such, the Engineer of present era is expected to work in rapidly changing technological and economical environment in global teams anywhere and at any time. The technical education planners also look at this aspect while formulating strategies to face future challenges of quality, efficiency and effectiveness. Today's engineers must work with an innovative mind. The employers too are changing their work organization with a new concept of open innovation emerging through integrated enterprises. The role of professional societies, a great repository of knowledge promoting innovation in technical education should also be exploited. I hope this issue of E&Tc Bulletin will act as a catalyst in triggering those innovative minds on whose shoulders the future of our nation is going to rest.

With friendly good wishes and a sincere God Bless.
